

F-18 World Championships 2010

4 Days To Go

Luc and Myself are off to the f-18 world championships this weekend in Erquy Just to the west of St Malo in Brittany, this is the 10th anniversary of the class which will be well represented by some of the best catamaran sailors in the world.

Our Hobie Tiger is already in France after some training last weekend in St Lunaire for a long distance race. On the Saturday evening we went over to the regatta venue in Erquy, which looks fantastic and is starting to fill up with shipping containers from as far away as Argentina at the moment.

The boat is working well and everything is set to go. The website for the event looks very good and the boats should be carrying trackers for great following on the internet this can be found at <http://ssl2.ovh.net/~cvberquy/f18worlds2010/> I will also be reporting back every day on my Blackberry with my own version of events!!!
